$79.95

The life of a seasoned starfighter pilot isn't all glory and adventure. After years of following orders and losing ships and friends, you are now the sole commander, responsible for heading up a momentous strike against your enemy's homeland—either the Empire of Kilrah or the heart of the Confederation. This war requires real strategy, not just hotshot piloting, and you have to determine where to fight, how to fight, and what ships will get the job done. In Wing Armada, you have the freedom to construct your own universe, your own missions and your own campaign. And with a modem or network, you can pit yourself against other real live joystick jockeys. MS-DOS 486DX/33+, 4MB RAM.

Somehow, you've escaped the fate of your companions, who have been mutated beyond recognition to serve SHODAN, the ruthless computer that now controls all station operations.
